THURSDAY EVEN'G, SEPTEMBER II. Use Cone & Weston's Best.

A CHEERFUL WIFE .- Better than gold to a man is a cheerful wife. But he must do bis part toward making her cheerful. It is easy are not made white at the expense of sweetness and nutriment, but by a system recently adopted But the tride expectant when she thought the tride expectant when she thought the propose to keep a supply of this brand of how happy she would be, never contemplated the picture of a husband coming home cross as the best now on the market. The trade can all ways rely upon getting the best Flour made. a bear, and going to bed without speaking to her; she has never thought of the long evening when he wouldn't come at all; or his bringing some one home to dinner without warning of preparation; or his awful profactly over so trifling a matter as her little bill of expenses. She had no ides, in fact, there could be anything but happiness in married life, and she had determined to be happy, and distribute her happiness to those about her. It is not often her fault if she doesn't succeed. Men, sale by is a rule, do not exert themselves to sieurs their wives' happiness. They know that it requires a constant and a great effort to possess property and be secure in its value in the midst of constant commercial changes. The cheerfulness, the happy, hopeful character which every | sale by woman displays at the beginning of marriage, is not so easily lost as a fortune; it requires but a small share. A word to the girls in this connection is in order: Beware of the man who doesn't know enough about cheerfulness to understand its value in daily life. Such a man would improve the first opportunity to guidd the cheerfulness out of his home, to frighten a subbeam icto a shadow, and then wonder what is the matter. Such is no better than to busband at a"; and when you want a burband go find somebody else-semebody who will give you at least some chance to be harpy far into the life beyond the honeymoon.

Ir is all well for men to talk about the imposibility of a woman's possing a store without a glance at the window, but who ever saw a man overtake a well dressed lady on the street and refrain from stealing a glance at her f.c. as he marched past? In these little weaknesses the balance is not all on one side by any means.
